Sec 2 History Cheat Sheet

Chapters 8 and 9 in the EOY scope (textbook pp. 84–121 and 124–153): how Singapore became independent (merger and separation, 1961–1965) and how it safeguarded its independence after 1965. Key events, people and dates, the three source skills (purpose, comparison, reliability), the "explain two reasons" essay, and practice questions with model answers.

EXAM

SECTION	MARKS	WHAT YOU DO
A: Source-based case study	17	Read several sources on one issue from Ch 8 or 9. Questions test inferring purpose, comparing sources and assessing reliability
B: Essay	8	Explain two reasons for a historical event

- Content: Chapter 8, How Did Singapore Become an Independent Nation? (textbook pp. 84–121), and Chapter 9, How Did Singapore Safeguard Its Independence After 1965? (pp. 124–153)
- Time: about two-thirds of your time on Section A, one-third on the essay
- Your contextual knowledge from Ch 8–9 is what lets you explain purpose and check reliability, so learn the events and dates

Watch out: source answers that only describe what a source says score low. Every answer needs a judgement backed by evidence from the source.

Where Chapters 8 and 9 fit in the textbook

SCOPE

TEXTBOOK SECTION	PAGES	IN THE EOY?
Unit 3: Singapore's Struggle for Independence (1942–1965)	2	overview
Ch 6: What Did the People in Singapore Experience During the Japanese Occupation?	4–37	no
Ch 7: How Did the People in Singapore Respond to British Rule After World War II?	38–83	no (background only)
Ch 8: How Did Singapore Become an Independent Nation?	84–121	yes
Unit 4: Surviving as an Independent Nation-State (1965–Late 1970s)	122	overview
Ch 9: How Did Singapore Safeguard Its Independence After 1965?	124–153	yes
Ch 10: To What Extent Did People's Lives Change After Independence?	154 onwards	no

Ch 7: post-war politics, self-government (1959) → Ch 8: merger and separation (1961–1965) → Ch 9: defending the new nation (1965–late 1970s)

- Background from Ch 7 you can use: Singapore gained full internal self-government in 1959 and the PAP formed the government. That is where Ch 8 begins
- Revise from the textbook: read pp. 84–121 and pp. 124–153, then use these cards to test yourself

Watch out: Ch 6 (Japanese Occupation) and Ch 10 (lives after independence) are not in the EOY scope. Don't spend revision time on them.

Key dates, 1959–1965

TIMELINE

DATE	EVENT
1959	Singapore gains full internal self-government; PAP wins the election; Lee Kuan Yew becomes Prime Minister

Apr 1961	Hong Lim by-election: Ong Eng Guan (expelled from PAP) beats the PAP candidate
27 May 1961	Tunku Abdul Rahman proposes a closer association: the Malaysia idea
Aug 1961	Lee Kuan Yew and the Tunku agree on the broad terms of merger
Jul–Aug 1961	PAP splits; the left wing forms Barisan Sosialis
Sep–Oct 1961	"The Battle for Merger" radio talks by Lee Kuan Yew
1 Sep 1962	Referendum on the type of merger: about 71% choose Option A
Jan 1963	Indonesia begins Konfrontasi (Confrontation)
2 Feb 1963	Operation Coldstore: over 100 people detained, including Lim Chin Siong
16 Sep 1963	Malaysia formed: Malaya, Singapore, Sabah (North Borneo), Sarawak
Sep 1963	Singapore state election: PAP wins; Alliance candidates win no seats
Apr 1964	Malaysian federal election: PAP contests on the mainland, wins 1 seat
Jul & Sep 1964	Racial riots in Singapore
9 Aug 1965	Separation: Singapore becomes an independent republic

Watch out: don't mix up the referendum (1962, choosing the type of merger) with the formation of Malaysia (1963). Check exact dates against your textbook.

Why did Singapore want merger?

CH 8

REASON	EXPLANATION
Economic survival	Singapore had no natural resources, a fast-growing population and rising unemployment. Entrepôt trade was declining as neighbours traded directly. A common market with Malaya would give Singapore's new industries a bigger market and Malaya's resources (rubber, tin)
Political independence	The British were unlikely to give Singapore independence on its own. Most leaders believed Singapore, too small to survive alone, would gain independence from Britain through merger
Security	The PAP leaders believed that being part of a larger, anti-communist federation would help deal with the communist threat

> EXAM SENTENCE
> One reason Singapore wanted merger was economic. With few natural resources and high unemployment, Singapore needed a common market with Malaya so that its industries could sell to a bigger market and create jobs.

Watch out: "Singapore was small" is not a reason on its own. Explain what problem being small caused (no resources, no market, no defence).

Why did Malaya change its mind about merger?

CH 8

	MALAYA'S VIEW
Before 1961: reluctant	The Tunku worried that adding Singapore's large Chinese population would upset the racial balance, and feared communist influence among Singapore's Chinese-educated left wing
1961: changed mind	The Hong Lim by-election (April 1961) and the PAP split suggested the moderate PAP government could fall to the pro-communist left. An independent, communist Singapore next door was a greater danger than merger
Solution to racial balance	Include the Borneo territories (Sabah, Sarawak, and Brunei at first) so the overall population would not have a Chinese majority

Fear of a communist Singapore → merger lets the federal government control internal security → Borneo states balance the population

Watch out: merger was proposed by the Tunku (1961), not forced by Singapore. Know why Malaya agreed, not just why Singapore wanted it.

The battle for merger: opposition, referendum, Coldstore

CH 8

EVENT	WHAT HAPPENED	WHY IT MATTERS
Barisan Sosialis (1961)	Left-wing PAP members, led by Lim Chin Siong, broke away. They opposed the merger terms: Singapore had only 15 of 159 federal seats, and they argued Singaporeans would become second-class citizens	a strong, popular opposition to merger
"The Battle for Merger" radio talks (Sep–Oct 1961)	Lee Kuan Yew gave a series of radio talks in several languages explaining why merger was needed and warning of communist plans	the PAP used mass media to win public support
Referendum (1 Sep 1962)	People chose between three forms of merger; there was no option to reject merger. Barisan urged blank votes; about 71% chose Option A and about a quarter cast blank votes	gave the PAP a mandate for merger
Operation Coldstore (2 Feb 1963)	The Internal Security Council detained over 100 people suspected of communist activity, including Lim Chin Siong	weakened the opposition before Malaysia was formed

Watch out: source questions on this topic often show bias: PAP materials support merger, Barisan materials oppose it. Always check who made a source and why.

Forming Malaysia and reactions from neighbours

CH 8

- Cobbold Commission (1962) found that about two-thirds of people in North Borneo and Sarawak supported Malaysia
- Brunei decided not to join
- Indonesia (President Sukarno) opposed Malaysia as a British "neo-colonial" plan and launched Konfrontasi (1963–1966), with raids and bombings
- The Philippines objected because it claimed Sabah
- 16 September 1963: Malaysia formed: Malaya, Singapore, Sabah and Sarawak

Watch out: Konfrontasi begins in Ch 8 (opposition to Malaysia) but its bombings, like MacDonald House in 1965, are a security challenge in Ch 9. Be ready to use it in both chapters.

Why did Singapore separate from Malaysia in 1965?

CH 8

REASON	EXPLANATION
Economic disagreements	The promised common market was slow to happen, so Singapore's goods still faced tariffs. There were disputes over how much of its revenue Singapore should pay to the federal government, especially as Konfrontasi raised defence costs
Political differences	The ruling Alliance was organised by race (UMNO, MCA, MIC: communal politics). The PAP believed in multiracial politics and a "Malaysian Malaysia" where all races were equal, which challenged Malay special rights. Each side contested the other's elections (1963 Singapore election, 1964 federal election), creating distrust
Racial tensions	Communal politics and newspapers such as the Utusan Melayu stirred racial feelings. The 1964 racial riots in Singapore (July and September) killed and injured many people

Economic disputes + political rivalry → racial tension and riots → Tunku decides separation is the only way to avoid more bloodshed → 9 Aug 1965

Watch out: in an essay, link the reasons: political rivalry worsened racial tension, which made the Tunku decide separation was the only solution.

Key people and terms (Ch 8)

PEOPLE

PERSON OR TERM	WHO OR WHAT
Lee Kuan Yew	Prime Minister of Singapore (PAP); led the campaign for merger

Tunku Abdul Rahman	Prime Minister of Malaya, then Malaysia; proposed merger (1961) and decided on separation (1965)
Lim Chin Siong	Barisan Sosialis leader; opposed merger terms; detained in Operation Coldstore
Ong Eng Guan	former PAP minister who won the 1961 Hong Lim by-election
Sukarno	President of Indonesia; launched Konfrontasi
Yusof bin Ishak	Singapore's first President after independence
Common market	an area where goods move with no tariffs (taxes on imports)
Referendum	a vote by the people on one issue
Communal vs multiracial politics	parties organised by race vs one party for all races

Watch out: spell names correctly: Tunku (not Tunku Rahman), Barisan Sosialis, Konfrontasi.

Ch 9: How did Singapore safeguard its independence after 1965?

Unit 4 · textbook pp. 124–153 · threats, deterrence, diplomacy · 4 topics

Threats to Singapore after independence

CH 9

THREAT	EXAMPLES
Konfrontasi (until 1966)	Indonesian saboteurs bombed MacDonald House (10 March 1965), killing 3 people and injuring 33
Communist threat	the underground communist movement continued; bombings in the 1970s
British military withdrawal	in 1967–68 Britain announced it would withdraw its forces from Singapore by 1971. The bases gave security and about a fifth of Singapore's economy and many jobs
Regional instability	the Vietnam War and fear of communism spreading in Southeast Asia
Transnational terrorism	Laju hijacking (1974): foreign terrorists attacked the Shell refinery on Pulau Bukom and seized the ferry Laju

Watch out: British withdrawal was both a security problem (no protection) and an economic problem (lost jobs). Mention both.

Deterrence: building a defence force

CH 9

Deterrence means having enough military strength that others think twice before attacking.

MEASURE	WHAT AND WHEN	WHY IT HELPED
National Service	introduced in 1967 for 18-year-old men	built a large citizen army quickly and cheaply; built national loyalty across races
Singapore Armed Forces (SAF)	expanded from two infantry battalions; army, then air force and navy	a credible defence as the British left
People's Defence Force (PDF)	volunteer part-time force (1965)	more manpower, involved the public
Defence industry	Chartered Industries of Singapore (1967) made ammunition and rifles	less reliance on other countries for weapons
Foreign help	Israeli advisers helped train the early SAF	gave expertise quickly
Five Power Defence Arrangements (1971)	Singapore, Malaysia, Britain, Australia, New Zealand	consultation and support after British withdrawal

> EXAM SENTENCE
> National Service helped safeguard independence because it let Singapore build a large army quickly as the British withdrew, which deterred possible attackers.

Watch out: explain how each measure protected independence. Listing "NS, SAF, PDF" without effects earns few marks.

Diplomacy: making friends and gaining recognition

CH 9

MEASURE	WHAT AND WHEN	WHY IT HELPED
United Nations	joined 21 September 1965	international recognition as a sovereign state; a voice for small states
Commonwealth	joined October 1965	ties with Britain and former colonies
ASEAN	founding member, 8 August 1967 (with Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, Thailand)	regional peace and cooperation; ended Konfrontasi tensions; united response to regional crises (e.g. Vietnam's invasion of Cambodia, 1978)
Bilateral relations	building ties with many countries, near and far	more friends and trade partners means more security

Indonesia	1968: two Indonesian marines who bombed MacDonald House were executed, straining ties; 1973: Lee Kuan Yew visited Indonesia and scattered flowers on their graves	repaired relations with a large neighbour

Deterrence (strong defence) + Diplomacy (many friends) = safeguarding independence

Watch out: "Singapore joined ASEAN" is a fact, not an explanation. Add how it helped: regional peace, cooperation, a united voice.

Key dates, 1965–1978

DATE	EVENT
10 Mar 1965	MacDonald House bombing
9 Aug 1965	Independence
Sep–Oct 1965	Joins the UN and the Commonwealth
1966	Konfrontasi ends
1967	National Service begins; ASEAN founded; Britain announces withdrawal
1968	MacDonald House bombers executed
1971	British forces withdraw; Five Power Defence Arrangements
1973	Lee Kuan Yew visits Indonesia
1974	Laju hijacking
1978	Vietnam invades Cambodia; ASEAN responds together

Watch out: source dates matter. A source from before an event can't describe its results, so use dates to check reliability.

Source skills Section A · purpose, comparison, reliability · 4 topics

Reading a source: content and provenance BASICS

LOOK AT	ASK
Provenance (the caption)	Who made it? When? What type (speech, newspaper, cartoon, government report)? For whom?
Content	What does it say or show? What is the main message?
Tone	Is it positive, critical, worried, mocking? Which words show this?
Context	What was happening at that time (from your Ch 8–9 knowledge)?

- Inference: what the source suggests, not just what it says. "Source A suggests that…"
- Cartoons: identify each figure and symbol, then the cartoonist's message

Watch out: copying the source is not an answer. Quote a short phrase, then explain what it shows.

Inferring purpose PURPOSE

Purpose = why the source was made: what the author wanted the audience to think or do.

1. Message: what is the author saying? Support with the source
2. Context: what was happening then, and who was the author?
3. Audience: who was it for?
4. Intended outcome: what did the author want them to think, feel or do?

> EXAMPLE: LEE KUAN YEW'S "BATTLE FOR MERGER" RADIO TALKS (1961)
> Message: merger was needed and the communists were trying to stop it. Context: the PAP had just split and Barisan Sosialis was campaigning against the merger terms before the referendum. Audience: the people of Singapore. Purpose: to persuade people to support merger and the PAP's plan, and reject Barisan Sosialis.

Watch out: "to inform" or "to show what happened" is too weak. A good purpose answer says what the author wanted the audience to do or believe, and why at that time.

Comparing sources COMPARE

1. Pick one criterion and compare both sources on it: message, view of a person or event, tone, or purpose
2. State the similarity or difference clearly
3. Support with evidence from both sources
4. For top marks: compare on a deeper level (tone, purpose or provenance), or give both a similarity and a difference

> ANSWER FRAME
> Sources A and B are similar/different in their view of [issue]. Source A shows that… as seen in "…". However, Source B shows that… as seen in "…". Therefore, they differ in…

Watch out: comparing different things doesn't work, e.g. A's view of the Tunku with B's view of the riots. Compare both sources on the same point.

Assessing reliability RELIABLE

Is the source reliable (trustworthy) as evidence about [the issue]?

METHOD	HOW
Cross-reference with other sources	does another source in the paper agree? Quote both
Check against your contextual knowledge	do the facts match what you know (dates, events, figures)?
Examine provenance and purpose	did the author have a reason to exaggerate or leave things out? E.g. a party's own campaign material, or a newspaper with a political side

ANSWER FRAME

Source C is (not) reliable about [issue]. Its claim that... is supported by Source D, which says... / matches the fact that... However, it was written by... whose purpose was to..., so it may exaggerate... Overall, Source C is (partly) reliable because...

Watch out: "It is biased, so it's unreliable" is not enough. Bias doesn't automatically make facts false: check the content against other evidence, then judge.

Explanation essay Section B · explain two reasons · 2 topics

Writing the "explain two reasons" essay 8M

Section B asks you to explain two reasons for a historical event (8 marks). One well-developed paragraph per reason.

STEP	WHAT TO WRITE
Point	state the reason, linked to the question: "One reason why… was…"
Evidence	specific facts: names, dates, events, figures
Explain	show how this caused the event: "This led to… because…"
Link	"Therefore, this was a reason why…"

- Spend about 5 minutes planning: choose the two reasons you know the most facts about
- Higher marks need specific evidence and a clear chain of cause and effect

Watch out: telling the story in order (narrative) scores low. Every paragraph must start with a reason, not a date.

Model essay: why did Singapore separate from Malaysia? MODEL

PARAGRAPH 1: POLITICAL DIFFERENCES

One reason why Singapore separated from Malaysia was political differences between the PAP and the Alliance government. The Alliance was made up of race-based parties, while the PAP believed in multiracial politics and called for a "Malaysian Malaysia" in which all races had equal rights. The PAP also contested the 1964 federal election on the mainland, after the Alliance had contested the 1963 Singapore election. This made UMNO leaders see the PAP as a threat to Malay special rights and to their power. Therefore, political rivalry created deep distrust that made it hard for Singapore to remain in Malaysia.

PARAGRAPH 2: RACIAL TENSIONS

Another reason was rising racial tension. Communal politics and newspapers such as the Utusan Melayu stirred up racial feelings, and riots broke out in Singapore in July and September 1964, killing and injuring many people. The Tunku feared that more violence would spread across Malaysia. Therefore, he decided that separation was the only way to prevent further bloodshed, and Singapore became independent on 9 August 1965.

Watch out: notice that each paragraph ends by linking back to separation. Without the link, you lose the top level.

Practice questions with model answers

PRACTICE

8m Explain two reasons why Singapore wanted merger with Malaya.

Economic: few natural resources, rising unemployment and declining entrepôt trade meant Singapore needed a common market with Malaya so its industries could grow and create jobs.

Political: the British were unlikely to grant independence to Singapore alone; merger was seen as the way to end colonial rule, and a larger anti-communist federation would help handle the communist threat.

Marking tip: two developed reasons, each with specific evidence and a link back to merger.

8m Explain two reasons why Malaya agreed to merger in 1961.

Fear of a communist Singapore: the Hong Lim by-election (1961) and the PAP split suggested the pro-communist left could take power. Merger would let the federal government control internal security.

Racial balance solved: including the Borneo territories meant the Chinese would not outnumber the Malays in the new federation.

Marking tip: explain the change: why the Tunku had been unwilling, and what changed in 1961.

8m Explain two ways Singapore safeguarded its independence after 1965.

Deterrence: National Service (1967) built a large citizen army quickly as the British prepared to leave; with the SAF and a local defence industry, it discouraged attack.

Diplomacy: joining the UN (1965) gave recognition as a sovereign state, and ASEAN (1967) built regional cooperation and peace with neighbours, including Indonesia after Konfrontasi.

Marking tip: explain how each measure protected independence, not just what it was.

8m Explain two challenges Singapore faced after independence.

Security: British withdrawal (announced 1967–68) left Singapore without a strong defence while Konfrontasi and the communist threat had shown it was vulnerable.

Economic: the British bases provided many jobs and a large part of the economy, so their closure threatened unemployment.

Marking tip: use specific examples (MacDonald House, withdrawal by 1971, Laju hijacking).

Purpose Source-skill drill: a 1962 Barisan Sosialis leaflet urges voters to cast blank votes in the referendum. What is its purpose?

Message: the referendum is unfair because none of the options allows people to reject merger. Context: the PAP's referendum offered three forms of merger. Audience: Singapore voters. Purpose: to persuade voters to cast blank votes as a protest, to show rejection of the PAP's merger terms and support Barisan Sosialis.

Marking tip: message + context + audience + intended action. "To inform" gets little credit.

Reliable Source-skill drill: a 1964 newspaper with a strong communal stand blames the PAP for the racial riots. Is it reliable about the causes of the riots?

Partly unreliable. It matches the fact that riots took place in July 1964 and that PAP–UMNO relations were tense. But the paper had a political side and a purpose of stirring feelings against the PAP, so it gives one-sided blame. Other evidence shows several causes, including communal politics and provocative reports. Overall, it is useful as evidence of the tension, but not reliable on who was to blame.

Marking tip: test the content (cross-reference, context) and the provenance, then give a final judgement.

Watch out: in the real paper, quote the actual sources given. These drills describe sources so you can practise the reasoning.
